

Greetings Community Ambassadors!

- Have you ever wondered how the volunteer hours you do add up?
- Have you ever been in charge of recruiting volunteers and needed somewhere to turn?
- Or maybe, you've had time on your hands and need a volunteer opportunity to find you?

If this sounds familiar, check this out!

SaskEnergy is well-known across the province for its commitment to support the good work done by volunteers. We know they are the "secret sauce" behind every charity and non-profit in the province, and every cultural or sporting event that celebrates our unique Saskatchewan spirit. That's why it makes perfect sense for SaskEnergy, Saskatchewan's Champion of Volunteers, to help bring a new technology platform called Do Some Good to our province that will build stronger and more connected communities.

We believe it will provide visibility for charitable and non-profit organizations and give them a valuable tool to find the people they need to champion their cause and build much needed capacity. It starts by registering organizations in our community, and volunteers like you - one at a time. And it is absolutely free to sign up and use as much as you want!

- Non-profit and charitable organizations can use it to recruit, manage, recognize, and communicate with volunteers, while raising awareness of their cause and strengthening relationships with local businesses that share the same community values. Do Some Good can also be used to create events, automate the tracking of volunteer hours and empower volunteers to help share their stories. It can even be used for cause-marketing and to connect with their donors and provide new ways to fundraise.
- Volunteers can find opportunities that match their interests and skill set, invite friends and families to participate, log and track hours, receive recognition, build their volunteer history (including their skill development), receive communications, share stories about causes they support, and so much more!
- At SaskEnergy, we can use this tool to engage employees in meaningful community activities that provide personal development and leadership opportunities, as well as demonstrate our corporate citizenship values. And you can use it to keep track of your contributions over the course of a year, or even search for volunteer opportunities that are just right for you.

So are you ready to be counted? Because you volunteered to be a SaskEnergy Community Ambassador, we are extending this pre-launch invitation to test our registration process in hopes you will take a few minutes to set up your very own personal profile. If you are ready to be counted, just click on this link and you will be invited to join as a SaskEnergy/TransGas employee!

Once you are on Do Some Good, you can go crazy inviting your friends and family to join you on the ground floor of building this promising Saskatchewan network... and don't forget to invite the organizations for which you volunteer so they can build an organization profile and start discovering new possibilities.

Thank you in advance for your support ... stay tuned for an official launch of Do Some Good in Saskatchewan during national volunteer week on April 25th! (p.s.: SaskEnergy employees do not qualify for the contest advertised on our profile but you are welcome to encourage fellow volunteers to join in hopes of winning a $1,000 sponsorship for volunteer initiatives (see promotion details on SaskEnergy's Do Some Good profile for more information).
